Rebels Claim Huerta Is Trying to Gain Men by Intimidating U. S. Invasion

(By Associated Press.)
PUEBLO, N.M., Sept. 9.—A manifesto, which constitutes a claim in an attempt of the Mexican government to recover by intimidation that Mexico is in danger of invasion from the north, is being circulated here today. It calls upon Mexican citizens to prepare for the worst, and to have arms ready for the defense of the country. It is alleged to have been issued by the Huerta administration.

Constitutionalists also made public a letter to Colonel Moraga, a leader in Huerta's battle when constitutionalists defeated federalists at San Diego, Victoria, inviting Moraga to desert to the federalists. This letter, signed by Colonel Antonio Moraga, of the federal forces at Monterrey, mentioned the most certain breaking of relations with the neighboring republic on the north, and the need for "the united help of all good citizens to preserve the respectability of Mexico."

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF RICH CHICAGO WOMAN

Found Floating in Lake Michigan With Cord Laced Tight Around Neck

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Walter B. Smith, wealthy society woman of Lake Forest, whose body was found yesterday afternoon with her cord laced tight around the neck in Lake Michigan, today discussed the circumstances of her death, and were unable to offer any satisfactory explanation of the case. The coroner's inquest last night failed to throw any light on the mystery.

The jury's verdict gave no theory as to the cause of death. The verdict read:

"We, the jury, find that Florence M. Smith came to her death by drowning in Lake Michigan, of the shore of Lake Forest."

Inquiry regarding the actions of Mrs. Smith yesterday revealed that before leaving for the lake she had been in the heat of health and spirits. She passed part of the morning playing bridge at her home and singing to her six-year-old daughter, Winifred.

Dr. A. C. Haven, physician for the Smith family, said today that Mrs. Smith had enjoyed good health and was not subject to fits of melancholia. Mrs. Smith, who was Florence M. Smith, was married to Walter B. Smith June 2, 1906.

Prisoner Robs From Fellow Prisoner to Pay His Own $8 Fine

COLUMBIA, Miss., Sept. 9.—Burglars are still abroad in the land and Columbia police officers are apparently puzzled by the breaking into and robbing of every department of the Mississippi state house, where the various city offices are located. Only recently the police procured some $200 from this building.

At latest burglary was that of the Macon temple, a three-story brick building, where the police procured some $200 from this building. A number of private offices are located in this building, and these were ransacked through for some $200 in money and many valuable papers being taken. The police are now working hard in efforts to run down the gang, but as yet they are clue to the guilty parties.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR MAYORALTY OF WACROSS

(By Associated Press.)
WACROSS, Va., Sept. 9.—Three candidates are now in the field for mayor of Wacross and three or four in the city. The candidates are: Scott T. Boston, of the Fourth ward; H. A. Cannon, for years a dentist; and Harry D. Reed, who placed the candidates want to fill, but previously announced his intention of not offering for re-election. It is possible that his friends will prevail upon him to reconsider.

Admirable contests are going to prove as interesting as the race for mayor, judging by present indications. No candidate has announced as yet but there are enough prospective candidates to make it certain that there will be plenty in the field when the election comes in the Second, Fourth and Sixth wards.

Friends of Two Hours Wed Despite Father and Police

After Courtship by Mail, They Meet at Aworth-Bridgroom Forget License, Only Minister There Refused to Marry 'Em-Irate Dad Had 'Em Arrested, but After All the Knot Was Tied ACWORTH, Ga., Sept. 9.—Love and even marriage at first sight, the outcome of a matrimonial want ad, supplemented by two short love letters and only a few hours' acquaintance, resulted in an Acworth drug store Sunday evening, when Miss Laura Bell Meadows, the beautiful and attractive daughter of Mr. N. C. Meadows, a prominent planter of near Acworth, and Mr. John Frederick Herk, a popular business man of Macon, Ga., were united.

The want ad, the letters and the few hours' acquaintance, however, were not all the romance attendant upon the union, for an angered father and the local police added romance to the romantic.

There were still other difficulties to surmount, for in the haste the bridegroom, late of South Carolina, had overlooked the marriage license necessary in Georgia. While the license was being procured the angered father, eight miles in the country, was hotting up and knowing the couple were far from home, he decided to call on the police, having the couple arrested.

However, it being found out that each was of age, they were released. Trouble piling upon trouble, the only minister in the city, Rev. J. C. May, being procured the ceremony without delay. At break-neck speed the father arrived at the scene where a stormy one for a time. However, friends interceded and the ceremony was performed.

After receiving the congratulations and a wedding present from the large crowd assembled, the bride and groom left for Macon, their future home.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF CHEATING AND SWINDLING

Dr. L. M. Harrison, Arrested in Atlanta, Probably Will Face Court in Columbus

Dr. L. M. Harrison, claiming to be a practicing physician of St. Petersburg, Fla., arrested by Atlanta detectives as he was in the act of calling on his firm at 221 Lake avenue, early Monday afternoon, was taken to Columbus, Ga., Tuesday morning to answer charges of cheating and swindling. The young physician is alleged to have victimized several physicians and dentists in the latter city, procuring money, it is charged, on the plea that he was to be married and was temporarily short of cash.

Wireless checks for an amount in excess of $100 already have been returned to him, and other victims are said to have withdrawn the fact that they were duped.

A well known young woman of Columbus, whom the prisoner had announced his intention of wedding, is said to be the alleged deceiver. It is said that the young agent of four days in Columbus made preparations for the wedding. Thursday afternoon the young woman left Columbus to do some shopping before the wedding. She visited the friends of her fiancé. After her departure several physicians and dentists in St. Petersburg had been introduced by Dr. Harrison had been introduced by his fiancée. It is said, however, that he had not intended to marry her, but that he had been deceived by her. He told them, however, that he was to be married, and induced them to cash checks on the faith of his word.

Dr. G. C. Murrain and J. T. McDonald are the complainants in the warrant charging cheating and swindling. The former introduced a check for $100, and the latter for $25. Dr. R. C. Powell introduced a check for $50, and Dr. Morgan on for $10, it is said. The alleged victim of the supposed swindler was taken to the police station after the checks were returned marked "no funds."

Diamond Prices Going Up

Three advances, aggregating 15 per cent, have occurred in the wholesale market during the past twelve months, which will have not followed.

It is almost certain the new tariff bill will be signed in the next ten days, and this will make another 10 per cent advance.

We just bought a big supply of diamonds from the cutters, anticipating the new tariff advance. However, the price paid were quite a little more than our present stock cost.

It will be necessary for us to partly follow the market before November.

You can buy a diamond from us now at the old prices as published in our diamond book, and catalogue and be certain of a definite advance before November.

Selections sent prepaid for examination to reliable people anywhere. Attractive monthly plans allowed.

DAY OF THE FINGER

BOWL HAS VANISHED

Piedmont Hotel Puts Taboo on the Old Custom of Dipping the Finger-Tips

Farwell, after breakfast, after lunch, and after dinner finger bowl. The time honored custom of dipping one's fingers in cold water following the meal in a hotel cafe has received the taboo in Atlanta.

No longer will the bowing waiter, anxious to do all he can for that tip, usher in the dainty little cups that have been the last word in table service throughout the civilized world.

The first sign of the new innovation has appeared on the menu cards of the hotel which carry the following terse inscription across the top: "Hotels from New York to California and from Maine to Louisiana have joined in the movement to abolish the old and unsanitary custom (and in some cases tip extractors) of serving finger bowls. Hereafter finger bowls will only be served on request."

And so the finger bowl has gone, relegated to the land of past customs and old ideas. Of course, you can get one if you want it, but then only on request.

PICKPOCKET GETS ROLL OF $50 IN BIG CROWD

B. B. Brand Reports to Police Loss of His Money at Terminal Station

Police are looking for a pickpocket who robbed B. B. Brand, of 28 Gray street, of $50 at the Union depot Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. They have a good description of the miscreant furnished by his victim.

Brand was waiting for a train and was standing in a crowd when he felt a faint tug at his back pocket which contained a bill book. He turned around in time to see a man walking hurriedly away. Before he could follow the supposed pickpocket was lost in the crowd. The pocketbook contained a $10 bill and three $10 bills.

agitated to the land of past customs and old ideas. Of course, you can get one if you want it, but then only on request.

It is a new thing in Atlanta, the newest thing that has been pulled, and Assistant Resident Manager R. Frank Taylor, of the Piedmont, believes that it will be met with favor. He heard of the innovation being tried in the north and west and decided to put it on at once.

In a statement given out Saturday night Chief Bavara declared that he had been informed by his officers that the arrests were made after complaints had been made to them by the capitol night watchman. Mr. Goodson says he has made no complaints to the police.

JUDGE ROAN INDORSED FOR FULTON JUDGESHIP

Atlanta Lawyers Urge Governor Slaton to Appoint Well-Known Jurist to Office

A number of Atlanta lawyers, headed by Attorney Eugene R. Black, appeared before Governor Slaton Monday afternoon and urged him to appoint Judge L. S. Roan to the fourth superior court judgeship of the Atlanta circuit, which was created by the last general assembly.

Mr. Black declared to Governor Slaton that many members of the Atlanta Bar association who had signed the petition for the appointment of an Atlanta lawyer had based their action on the theory that Judge Roan was not an Atlanta lawyer. It was pointed out that Judge Roan had been a resident of Atlanta for about a year and that for many years he has under a special act of the legislature, presided over the criminal division of the Fulton county superior court.

Governor Slaton expressed the hope that the Atlanta Bar association would be able to "get together" on the appointment, as he desired by all means to have a unanimous action on the part of the association behind such an appointment.

Very likely Mr. Jerome was winning when he was pinched.

It's up to Tech now to make Atlanta supreme in football, too.

The Pith of Road Problems.

Every State and every county will do well to ponder these words from the constitution of the Ohio Good Roads Federation:

"We urge the adoption of a comprehensive and efficient plan of administration that will improve, maintain and unify as one complete system the public thoroughfares of the country, to the end that we may secure a National highway system, a State highway system and a township highway system, each a distinct unit yet all integral factors of a complete system of Good Roads everywhere."

It is doubtful that the needs of American road building were ever more sorely and trenchantly described. Unless the improvement and the maintenance of highways are conducted in accordance with some unified plan under which all sections of each county and all counties of each State and all the States of the Union co-operate toward a common end, the labor and money spent on road work will produce only scattered and temporary results. The value and service of a road depends primarily on its relationship to other roads. It is not the single link but the chain that bears the stress and burden. Road building must be comprehensive in order that it may be efficient.

The great need as the Ohio Federation declares is the adoption of a comprehensive plan of administration whereby the various efforts of counties and States will be coordinated. Thus only can State systems and a national system of good roads be developed. Georgia is especially in need of such a plan. Our individual counties are for the most part doing admirable work in improving their local roads; but we are wholly lacking in the means and machinery for unified, State-wide endeavor in this important field of public enterprise. The way to remedy this defect is clearly the establishment by the Legislature of a State Highway Commission to serve as a coordinating and guiding influence for each and all of the counties. Such a commission would have vast sums of money and would result in the upbuilding of a real system of highways.

"Democrats lose in Maine." Well, they can't always win.

We have to think what Canada would do in the case of a real crop famine.

The kicker is bad enough, but he has several advantages over the man who whines.

The president can afford all the county fairs he cares to. The invitations are not lacking.

Probably, after all, those Canadians object to Jerome's little game because the limit was so small.

Across the Ocean by Air.

That ever inspiring fancy of an airplane flying across the Atlantic is again revived with the completion of Count Zeppelin's latest dirigible balloon.

The Count has not definitely announced that he or any of his associates will essay the great adventure but his engineers state significantly enough that in this mighty craft the ocean passage could be made without "undue risk." The ship is five hundred and twenty feet long; it has four engines, each with a motive power equal to that of two hundred horses, while, as the New York Times points out, it is more energy than cranks a big cargo steamer has in its hold. "Such a vessel," the Times adds, "with anything like good luck as to weather, could undoubtedly reach our shores from Europe, and some day one of them is sure to do it."

While aviation has lagged in the United States during the past year, it has made remarkable progress in Europe and has won a place there never in scientific and popular interest. The transatlantic flight is seriously discussed in England, France and Germany. A London newspaper has offered a tempting prize for the first Columbus of the air. It will not be surprising if the flight is undertaken in the near future.

It is no task for a clever woman to manage a young man—during courtship.

The tariff is practically passed and the currency bill soon will be. Now may we look the bill collectors in the face without flinching.

The Result in Maine.

Unofficial returns from the special Congressional election held Monday in the Third district of Maine give the Republican candidate a plurality of 10,000 votes in a total of some thirty-six thousand.

In the regular Congressional election last year the Republican candidate in this district received a majority of more than seven hundred votes. These figures cannot reasonably be construed as a rebuke to national Democratic policies. They show that a district normally Republican has remained so but beyond that they carry no particular significance. Certainly, they do not indicate any break in the Democratic ranks; for, in the Presidential election last autumn Mr. Wilson received fourteen thousand six hundred and ninety-two votes in this district, while in Monday's election the Democratic candidate for Congress received votes of fourteen thousand five hundred.

Perhaps the most interesting result of the day was the heavy decrease evidenced in the so-called "Progressive" ballot. The Bull Moose candidate polled only some sixty-five hundred votes as compared with over thirteen thousand cast for Roosevelt in the Presidential election in 1912, a falling-off of more than fifty per cent. This record would seem at least to signify that the new party has not held its own in Maine despite its exertions of the "Progressive" leaders in that state.

Had the Republican majority in the Third district been a large one, it would not have been especially surprising, for, by elections frequently go against the party in power. On the whole, the result is rather reassuring than otherwise to national Democracy.

How difficult to draw the line between genius and insanity!

Theory is all right in its way, but it won't wash dishes.

The Cooling of Mexico.

Everybody except habitual trouble hunters has ceased worrying over what was lately termed the Mexican "crisis." The jinxes of this country, few and far between, finding that no one would dance to their wild piping, have dispersed. There is no more babble of intervention. The dollar-mark patriots who have rushed the nation into war merely to protect or promote their financial interests across the border have been effectively silenced. The President's sober words rang an instant and unvaried response both from Congress and the people. In Mexico itself, conditions have grown distinctly reassuring. Santa Fe has evidently undergone a happy change of mind, if not of heart. He no longer blusters windy threats against American diplomacy nor smirks in self-satisfaction. If all reports be true, and certainly they are credible, Huerta is ready to retire in accordance with the friendly, yet firm, suggestions of the United States; and when he is out of the way, the Mexican problem will be more than half solved.

The ultimatum of Huerta from the future politics of Mexico, or rather from the forthcoming Presidential election, is one of the essential demands of our Government's policy. No regime of which he is the head will receive the recognition of the United States, nor will it command the support of any considerable portion of the Mexican people. His de facto government was set up in defiance of law and by methods which have no place in the civilized world. There can be no peace in Mexico, to stability or progress until Huerta, and his criminal associates, are removed.

It has taken the would-be dictator a long time to realize that he could not wheedle or force the United States into countenancing his usurpation; but at length the truth has soaked in. He has had his final word from Washington. He understands that no Mexican government can prevail at this time without the moral sanction of the United States. His career is bankrupt and he can secure no loans. His soldiers are mutinous. His personal adherents, in notable instances, cooled and fallen away. The sentiment of Latin America is against him. The pluck of necessity grows tighter and sharper, forcing Huerta to terms.

It is generally understood, indeed, that he has virtually acceded to the requests of our Government. Under the provisions of the Mexican constitution he is barred from a candidacy in the approaching election and he has tacitly indicated that he will not be a candidate. In that event, the crux of the present Mexican problem will be solved, the provocation of the war the revolutionaries have waged will be removed.

A special election to choose a constitutional successor to the late President Madero is set for next October. The government established through that election will be recognized by the United States, a fact which will go very far toward assuring its stability. That does not mean, of course, that peace and order will at once be restored, for the life that have besieged Mexico for generations will require years of patience and firmness for a complete cure. It is not too much to hope, however, that a government created under the constitution by a majority of the Mexican people and morally supported by the United States and the world will gradually order out the present chaos and open the way for a new and better era in that troubled republic.

Slender As a Weapon

By Dr. Frank Crane.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

There are certain bullets which civilized countries are supposed to use. They mutilate. Flaming through the flesh they tear a ghastly hole. In the quarrels of people universal contempt follows. Following the quarrel into the face and eyes.

Only savages use poisoned arrows or knives which not only cut but bring on horrible suffering.

It is not good form, as it used to be, to hold one's hand, day after day, to torture human beings to gouge out their eyes, fill their ears with molten lead, and employ upon them the rack and thumb-screw.

Poisoning one's enemies, once a favored means of attack in the days of the Borgias, is not at all proved now. From all of which it appears that while we all fight still and seek to disable our opponents in the various fields of competition, there are some sorts of inhuman and loathsome weapons which common decency would prohibit.

And about the vilest, cruellest, most damnable weapon of all is BLAIND.

It is blinding, but not at all, with blinding as you use it. Folliott knows who, when all other means fail to defeat their man, stop not at raking up or inventing some means of blinding.

Corporations who employ sleuths to drag the name of an objectionable rival through the mud.

Church members who, when they are asked to listen to shameful rumors about their priest or pastor.

Social leaders who, when they are asked to listen to the words of a woman who is a poison of the nation.

Newspapers who blast reputations lightly, if it means a sale.

Certain loathsome periodicals whose entire value is the evil insinuations they put in print. Their income is made of lies.
